Within any woman's reach, however, is the spread made of unbleached muslin. All over the surface conventional scrolls are outlined by means of huge French knots done in heavy white cotton. The edge of the spread is finished with cotton fringe.

The sham that matches the spread is one long piece of the muslin a little wider than the pillow it is designed to cover. This is treated in the same manner as the spread and can be finished with the cotton fringe at each end or can be used all the way around.

WOULD PREVENT WAR PLOTS

Action Is Taken by Von Bernstorff on Direction From the Berlin Foreign Office "In Consequence of Cases Which Have Occurred of Late."

Washington, May 20.—Germany, through Ambassador von Bernstorff, has instructed all German consuls in the United States to admonish German citizens in their districts to observe American laws scrupulously. This is done in an effort to end various alleged violations of American neutrality.

The ambassador acted on instructions received on Thursday from the Berlin foreign office. The action was announced in this official statement from the German embassy.

"In consequence of cases which have occurred of late, the German ambassador has sent instructions to all German consuls in the United States to strongly impress upon German citizens living in their districts that it is their duty scrupulously to obey the laws of the state in which they reside."

It was said at the German embassy that the instructions were designed to prevent plots or lawlessness on the part of German citizens who might be disposed to engage in such. The German government, it was said, looks with great disfavor upon any such conduct and desires that its citizens shall engage in no undertaking in any way outside the law.

Whether specific cases have been brought to the attention of the German government was not disclosed, but it was made clear that Berlin officials wish the United States and its people to understand that they have not countenanced any illegal affairs with which German citizens or sympathizers in this country have been connected.

Count von Bernstorff's instructions were forwarded immediately to German consuls.

TWO AMERICANS ARE SAVED

Outlaws Who Attacked Little Garrison at Glen Springs and Murdered Half of Gallant Defenders, Taken After Short Fight 105 Miles From Border.

Marathon, Tex., May 19.—The Mexican bandits who raided Glen Springs several weeks ago and killed half of the gallant little band of American troops that garrisoned the town were captured near Laguna del Fresno, 105 miles south of the border, by the troops under Major Langhorne and Colonel Sibley. This word was brought here by soldiers returning on truck trains.

Six of the Mexicans were shot as they tried to escape. The others, numbering about 75, laid down their arms and surrendered without a move, according to best reports on the affair.

These are the same Mexicans who captured Jesse Deemer and Monroe Payne, Americans, during the Glen Springs and Hoggalls raids. Deemer and Payne were rescued by Major Langhorne before the clash with the bandits occurred.

Deemer is a white man; Payne a negro.

As the American troops were approaching El Paso a friendly Mexican told them that the two Americans were being detained there, and promised to lead the troops to the spot. Leaving the balance of his men behind, Major Langhorne took a handful of troops with him and rode to the house. The Mexican family quickly produced the two captives, who were overjoyed at being saved.

Pushing on, Langhorne received word of the bandits' location from friendly Mexicans at Cerro Blanco.

Closely followed by the troops under Colonel Sibley, a forced march was begun. All night the horses were pushed.

The following afternoon the Americans sighted the bandits in a small canyon near Frisco lake. They were resting, sprawled at full length on the ground, their horses tethered nearby.

Major Langhorne distributed his forces quietly. Not until the Mexicans were completely surrounded did they become aware of the presence of the American troops. At a given signal the soldiers rushed out and demanded their surrender. The Mexicans were dumbfounded.

About a dozen made a dash for their lives, but were overtaken by the American rifles and six of the Mexicans were killed. The rest were cowed, and surrendered without further resistance.
